Format: SD

The bottlenose dolphin is a marine mammal very common in our seas but seriously threatened by fishing job, ship traffic and pollution. Del.Ta project – dolphin and turtle protected – is just born with the aim to protect this cetacean and marine turtles of the Caretta caretta species, supported by the European Commission thanks to Life Natura program. The documentary shows different activities of the project, describing the patient and difficult job carried out by biologists in the protected marine area of the Pelage Islands. In the waters surrounding Linosa, Lampione and Lampedusa, the most southern Italian point, the highest density of dolphins of the whole Mediterranean Sea has been found.
